NPACC in midst of great year! Royal City Saxophone Quartet had toes tapping

Area performers, Joan Moore of Listowel, and Phil Main of Wingham, started the first concert of the 2009 North Perth Arts series on a high note, when they opened for The Royal City Saxophone Quartet on April 19 at Theatre 3-11. This duo, having worked together in the past, presented a familiarity and home town spirit that had the audience settling in for a great afternoon of musical fun. Photo by Mark Robinson.

The Royal City Saxophone Quartet, from Guelph, followed with a lively concert of Ragtime and Dixieland style music, presented to an enthusiastic audience. The highlight of the concert was a set of pieces celebrating the music of the Six Brown Brothers, an Ontario troupe of saxophone players who starred on the Vaudeville front for 20 years.

Paul's Odd Friends - a talented group

When a group of talented musicians gathers, beautiful music happens. 'Paul's Odd Friends', the second of the 2009 Concert Series, drew an appreciative audience to Theatre 3-11 on Sunday May 31st. Paul Dekker brought together an eclectic mix of local and area talent. Music styles ranged from Indie Rock, to Country, Folk and Jazz.

First Impressions Artists' Workshop

The bi-annual First Impressions Artists' Workshop on April 25 was well received with a dozen talented and enthusiastic local artists and hobbyists taking part in the hands-on experience.

Pat Turbitt, a local artist known for her skills in drawing with pencil, guided her group through the art of drawing faces with character. The range of images produced by those attending this workshop displayed a tremendous amount of talent.

Lorraine McDonald, from the Fergus area, presented a detailed program in the basics of watercolor painting. This program, geared to new comers to the medium, was full of great ideas and how-to-get-started techniques. Those attending this workshop were successful in completing a large watercolor project in one day.

The full day program also included a satisfying soup and sandwich lunch as part of the fee, which gave participants time to mingle with other attendees and reenergize to complete their projects in the afternoon.

North Perth Arts and Culture Council is planning to offer more workshops in the future. If you would like to see specific themes or media on the agenda, please let us know! Contact the council at info@northpertharts.ca or call 519 291 4167.

And... there's more to come!

North Perth Arts and Culture Council has had a terrific year to date. We're proud of the talent we have provided the community through our concerts and workshops. We have two more major events planned before year end:

- ▶ NPACC will present the children's art program again this summer from August 10-14. Look for the registration form in this newsletter for the Summer Art Experience. Registration is limited to 20 so be sure to get those forms to us as soon as possible!
- ▶ The final concert in our series will take place at Theatre 3-11 on November 22 at 2:00 p.m. This will be a Victorian Christmas program with Waterloo County Carollers. Wallace Township native, Carol Treitz, is a member of this group which was established in 1986. All carollers are professional singers who come together every Christmas season to 'make music'. Throughout the year they perform individually, both on the international and local front.
  - ▶ Sentimental Journey, a vocal group which performed locally for several years, etching themselves into the hearts of many, will be opening for this concert in a special reunion appearance!

NPACC welcomes Chris Moon to board of directors

Central School's 'The Nightingale'

By Tyler Schaefer

On Tuesday, April 7, Listowel Central Public School's junior division treated the community to an evening of fantasy by presenting "The Nightingale." Taking the audience to ancient China, the grade 4-6 students explored the moral of staying true to who you are.

Based on the classic tale by famous children's writer, Hans Christian Andersen, "The Nightingale" tells the story of an emperor who hears of a wondrous nightingale and sends his courtiers to find the bird. All of China is wowed by the nightingale until a mechanical bird arrives and the court goggles at the created bird's jewels and steady rhythm. Feeling left out, the nightingale flees. All is fine in the empire until the mechanical bird breaks. Without the music to fill his soul, the emperor's life fades.

The musical used the talents of all students. Interested students auditioned for cast roles, while others participated through song and dance. Because of the narrative nature of this musical, the junior division pushed the bar higher than previous musicals in regards to set, props, costumes, and rehearsal. While the students certainly felt the struggles of trying to create an emotionally impacting performance, the reward could be easily viewed by their energy and pride following the show.

The Nightingale (Jill Schalk) dances and sings her song for the Imperial Court.

The Emperor (Emily Qureshi) contemplates the writing, which shares the beauty of the Nightingale, with her Chief of Staff (Delanie Pritchard) and the Imperial Physician

Katherine Kerr - a passion for dance

By Nicole Kaufman

The dream of becoming a professional dancer is one that many young girls aspire to while they parade around their homes as prima ballerinas. Listowel area native, Katherine Kerr, is one of those individuals who has made her childhood dream a reality. She is the daughter of Tom and Lynn Kerr.

A dancer since the age of three, Katherine has performed with two different dance companies - Performance One in Listowel and Encore Dance Studio in Elmira. Excelling in tap, jazz, ballet, and lyrical, Katherine's passion for dance sets her apart from her peers. Over her 13-year career she has won numerous scholarships and awards at dance competitions all over Ontario and one in the United States. Locally, she carried a role in Joseph and the Technicolor Dream Coat with Drayton Entertainment.

Katherine continues to be at the top of her dance category. Her most recent accomplishments include 1st overall as a senior soloist, 2nd overall senior soloist and 1st overall senior duet/trio. Although she does a variety of different styles, it is through her lyrical dances that she finds the most passion, creativity and enjoyment. Watching her perform, it's hard to imagine she can't commit as much time to dance as some of her competitors. It is the amount of heart she puts into her dance that shines through, both at practice and in performance.

Katherine has had opportunities to work with choreographers such as Blake McGrath (as seen on both 'So You Think You Can Dance' US and Canada), and meet a number of dancers such as Sabra Johnson, Travis Wall and Jamie Goodwin, who have achieved acclaim on the hit television show 'So you Think You Can Dance'.

At the present time, Katherine is still dancing at a senior level with Encore in Elmira. In addition to her dance classes, she is an assistant instructor to the intermediate competitive class at the studio. She has one more year of classes at the competitive level, before moving onto her post secondary dreams and goals. Katherine says that dance will always be a part of her life. Although she may not be taking classes with Encore, she is hoping to be a proud and energetic member of the Wilfred Laurier competitive dance team, as she pursues a career in the legal field.

Dance is a way of life and in the case of Katherine it is clear that she has a natural love and passion for what she does. Because of this, she has the creative ability to explore different emotions, experience different movements and express herself through a medium that only a select few can achieve at a professional level.

How to promote yourself as an artist

By Gary Moon, Photographer

This is the fourth of a four part series. See the September 2008, and January and April 2009 issues of The Palette on our website for the first three articles in the series.

How to promote yourself as an artist Part 4: The Value of Researching your Art Form

It goes without saying that whatever your art form, you need to master the basic techniques including composition, draftsmanship, perspective, craftsmanship, and other factors unique to your medium. To put yourself one level up from the rest of the field, it requires you, as an artist and creative person, investigate the variations and changes in your genre to find ways to use these to advance your creative expression. It's time to think outside the box, and move beyond your comfort zone.

Look to find ways that will set you apart from others. Once you feel confident in your art and the conception and execution of the idea, its time to put your personal style into your work. How do you differentiate your art from others in a similar school? Is it vision, color palette, theme, subject matter, presentation, or viewer response?

What factors caused other artists to veer away from the accepted norms in their chosen media? Impressionists were breaking away from the structure of the art schools and rigid rules to capturing real life subjects in their surrounds. This created controversy among artists, critics and the public as the artists moved away from classical themes as shown in the galleries and taught in the state schools. The move was away from studio controlled studies, to working outdoors (plein air), capturing the light of the moment, capturing the changing colors in nature, in the sky, or on the waves of the sea. Other shifts from accepted styles lead to new schools of art.

In the current age, there are too many gadgets to make art. Remember, the invention of the typewriter didn't make for better writers. What does this mean to you? Move away from your comfort zone. The easiest research involves a trip to the library or a few google sessions on the internet. The challenging research comes when you look around you. Visit artists in your area. Attend a studio tour, or gallery opening. Take time to talk to other artists. Explore not just the obvious, the art work in front of you for viewing, but the underlying details that make for a successful event.

The more you see and experience, the more you add to your personal visual vocabulary. It is from this store of unique knowledge you will grow and express your vision and emotion as a successful artist.

Artist Spotlight

By Chris Moon

Mozart Gelinas is a local musician with a life-long dedication and passion for performing. Mr. Gelinas, a Zurich ON native who moved to Listowel with his wife, Julie, in 2000, began performing professionally at the age of 14. A natural talent, he has mastered several instruments in his career with acoustic guitar, bass, banjo, saxophone and E-flat horn part of his repertoire.

Mozart joined his father's travelling family dance band at the age of 18 and remained a member for 32 years. The band saw many changes over the years, including the progressive addition of each of Mozart's three children. Daughter, Amy Rau, a professional music teacher based in Zurich, recently received a NYC Cornerstone Award for her contribution to the Music for Young Children program. His son, Brian, is a Kitchener-Waterloo based sheet metal mechanic with a penchant for music and performing on the side. Youngest daughter, Chantel, is currently a costume designer with the Drayton Festival Theatre, working out of their Grand Bend location.

A veteran of the inaugural NPACC Concert Series where he opened for Ali Matthews and Rick Francis in April 2007, Mozart has recently issued his first full length album of his unique blend of folk, gospel, and traditional rock music. The album is available for purchase through Mozart's web-site at www.mozartgelinas.com or can be found on iTunes. Mozart credits his influences for the album to an eclectic group of performers ranging from Bruce Springsteen to Three Dog Night, Johnny Cash and John Denver.

Mozart currently resides in Listowel, with his wife Julie, and frequently plays various events at his church, work, and surrounding area."

Musicians! Here's a thought!

A recent Ontario Arts Council newsletter invited submissions of examples of artistic programming which enhances audience participation. More info on the webpage www.arts.on.ca

Meirion Kelly submitted this idea: "I am an independent jazz musician and own and operate a small rehearsal space and perform in various groups in the Toronto area. Last week I put together a small gathering of people at my space for a 'listening soiree.' The concept was simple: bring along a jazz recording on vinyl and we would listen together and provide insight into the various recordings. It was a great success, going long into the night, with the flavor of 'poker night' with no cards.

"There is something to be said for the social aspect of listening that I think we have completely lost with the development and popularity of iPods and directed broadcasts. These methods of experiencing music are very isolating I believe and human encounters really need to be reintroduced when experiencing music. I intend to use these soirees as way of cultivating an audience base for my own projects, recordings and concerts."
